American Indian Studies is an interdisciplinary field of study that focuses on the histories, experiences, languages, arts, and cultures of peoples indigenous to the lands that now comprise the United States of America. It seeks to broaden students' understandings of the diversity and complexity of American Indian identities, communities, and nations; to make connections between Native peoples and cultures in the U.S. and Indigenous peoples and cultures across the Americas and around the globe; to provide comparative and intersectional approaches to issues of race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, class, and citizenship; and to encourage linking educational and research initiatives to community and political concerns.

The minor in American Indian Studies requires 12 credit hours of coursework. Students must choose a minimum of four courses, from at least two different academic units.

Three courses (9 credit hours) must be taken in American Indian Studies. The remaining elective course (3 credit hours) should be taken in either global Indigenous studies or comparative U.S. race/ethnicity studies.

The elective course in global Indigenous or comparative U.S. race/ethnicity studies will be approved by the coordinating adviser in consultation with the student on a case-by-case basis.

Students may include up to three credit hours of variable credit courses in independent research/fieldwork or internship experience in either AIS or global Indigenous or comparative US race/ethnicity with the approval of the AIS coordinating adviser.

Asian American Studies is an interdisciplinary field of study that focuses on the histories, experiences, and cultures of people of Asian and Pacific Islander descent living in the United States. It seeks to broaden students' understanding of the diversity and complexity of Asian American identities and communities; to provide comparative and intersectional approaches to race, migration, ethnicity, class, gender, sexuality, and citizenship; and to encourage linking educational and research initiatives to community and political concerns.

The minor in Asian American Studies requires 12 credit hours of course work. Three courses (9 credit hours) must be taken in Asian American Studies. The remaining three credits may be fulfilled by taking: a) an additional Asian American Studies course; b) an elective in Asian studies; or c) an elective in U.S. race/ethnicity studies. Note that language courses (i.e., Chinese 1101) may not count toward the elective.

No more than six hours of 2000-level course work may count toward the minor. Up to six credit hours may overlap between the minor and the General Education (GE).

To enroll in the minor, schedule an appointment with the coordinating adviser, complete the minor program form, then file the form with your college or school counselor.

See Academic Advisor for questions about Minor and graduation requirements, GE's, petitions or waivers.

Faculty Coordinator: Miranda Martinez, martinez.475@osu.edu, 432 Hagerty Hall
614-688-4035

See the Faculty Coordinator for questions about courses and research in Latina/o Studies.

Latinas/os are multi-racial, multi-ethnic, multi-lingual, and often trans-national. Latinas/os have been a part of the U.S. since the nineteenth century. The Latina/o Studies Minor allows students to deepen knowledge of Latina/o experiences (social, economic, legal, etc.), histories, literatures, cultures, and arts; enhance critical learning skills; learn comparative and interdisciplinary methods of analysis; and develop close working relationships with faculty and other students. Courses in the Latina/o Studies Minor explore a variety of important topics relevant to this growing sector of the U.S. population and its hemispheric and global dimensions.

As an inter-discipline, we encourage students to study in multiple fields for the most comprehensive understanding of:

- ♦ Latinas/os in the U.S.
- ♦ the research field of Latina/o Studies
- ♦ varied methods and approaches employed in studying Latinas/os in the U.S.
- ♦ Latina/o transnational and global impacts and networks.

The Minor in Latina/o Studies, therefore, also provides students with an education in multiple disciplines and cutting-edge research.

Requirements: 12 Credits

Required Core Course, 3 Credits: Comparative Studies 2322 / Spanish 2242: Introduction to Latina/o Studies (generally offered every semester)

Required Elective Courses, 9 Credits: Students choose three additional courses from the list below. Students must take at least one course in each of the two general subject areas: Culture, Literature, and Arts; History and Social Issues. Please see "Current Courses" page of our website to see what is offered in the current academic year. Courses marked with an asterisk (*) have variable topics and instructors. When a Latina/o Studies affiliated faculty member is teaching an asterisked course, it will generally count for the Minor; otherwise, syllabi for these courses need approval from Faculty Coordinator to count for Minor.

Required Spread: At least two courses or 6 hours of coursework in the Minor must be in Upper Division courses:

i.e., (1) courses numbered 3000-5000 and (2) foreign language courses taught in the language at the 2000 level and above,

Language Option: Students may count only one course in Spanish language instruction toward the Minor, although all possible options are listed below in elective list.

Additional Course Options: Students or Faculty may petition the Faculty Coordinator to include a course in the Minor course of study provided that they supply a syllabus for approval.

Subject Area: Culture, Literature, Arts

Courses in this area will explore various forms of creative expressions that have emerged from the U.S. Latina/o community in literature, film, art, dance, theater, music, performance, and popular culture. Courses may also explore Latina/o cultural phenomena as they interface with those arising out of communities in the Americas generally. Students will learn the methods of literary, cultural, and artistic analysis, and consider creative expression as well as a vehicle for social transformation.

Lower Division Courses

*Comparative Studies 2101: Literature and Society
*Comparative Studies 2105: Literature and Ethnicity
Comparative Studies 2367.02: Second Year Writing Course on Latina/o Identity
*Comparative Studies 2798.01: Study Tour Domestic Spanish 2202: Intermediate Spanish for Second Language Learners
