Sue Strakowski is an Associate Registrar at the University of Cincinnati. Prior to her current role, Sue's work has been focused on transfer and transition student populations, such as: College Credit Plus students, transfer students, adult learners, and non-matriculated students. One of her primary focus areas has been working to advocate for students through policy and procedural change to bridge inequalities in educational access. Sue was born in Busan, South Korea and lived in New York City before moving to Cincinnati, Ohio in 2014. During her free time, Sue enjoys spending time with her family, friends, and two cats.

Justin Hardman is the Director of College Credit Plus at Owens Community College, where he plays a pivotal role in expanding educational opportunities for high school students. With over 20 years of experience in higher education, Justin has demonstrated a dedication to student success. His career spans various departments, including Admissions, Testing Services and Academic Advising, showcasing his versatility and commitment to enhancing the academic journey of students.
