

Practical Aquaponics Workshop

Where - 501 West Sixth St, Suite 105, Lexington KY 40508

When – Saturday April 27th, 2019 from 9am to 3pm, social hour 3-4pm

Cost - $45.00

FoodChain is partnering with Kentucky State University to host an intermediate aquaponics workshop at FoodChain. This will be an all day workshop filled with lectures on various aspects of aquaponics. After the lecture period participants will get an in person look at some small-scale aquaponics systems and filtration types. These will be used to teach proper design and construction of aquaponics filtration. Following the demo period, participants will take an in depth tour of the FoodChain aquaponics farm. After the tour participants have the option to network with aquaponics professionals at West Sixth Brewery (located in the same Building).

Participants will take away a flash drive filled with relevant aquaponics information to refer back to.

Registration is limited to 30 people. Signup at Eventbrite.com or contact zack@foodchainlex.org for more information.

Registration - sign up through the link on eventbrite or contact Zack@foodchainlex.org for more information. <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/intermediate-aquaponics-workshop-tickets-59594360336>

- Registration ends April 20th.

Lunch is on your own

Itinerary

- Check in 9:00-9:15
- Introduction/welcoming 9:15-9:30
- Aquaponics basics 9:30 – 10:15
- Fish/plant health 10:20 – 11:05
- System design 11:10 - 11:55
- Water quality 12:00-12:45
- Lunch – 12:45- 1:45
- FoodChain tour/demo talk – 1:45 – 3:00
- West Sixth social hour 3:00 – 4:00