The North Central Regional Aquaculture Center (NCRAC) is supporting small-scale seafood processing and food safety training for fish farmers in the Midwest.

Interested fish and aquaponics farmers may sign up for a 2-day HACCP (Hazard Analysis Critical Control Points) training session. The location of farmers will determine how many training sessions will be available and the training session locations.

If you are highly interested and willing to commit to the process, please complete this survey as soon as possible. Seats are limited!
